

Internet of things: inventing an innovation-friendly regulation
Arcep conference – November 7th, 2016, Paris

BIOGRAPHY

DOMINIQUE BOULLIER

Dominique Boullier is Professor of sociology at Ecole Polytechnique Fédérale de Lausanne (EPFL) and Head of the Social Media Lab since 2015. He holds a PhD in sociology from Ecole des hautes études en sciences sociales and has completed his habilitation to lead research works in information & communication. He is certified in linguistics.

He used to research the uses of ICTS and urban sociology in Rennes (1981-1989) and was a researcher at the University of California Berkeley (1985-1986).

He was entrepreneur from 1989 to 1996. He was then Head of the Costech lab at UTC Compiègne (1998-2005), Head of Lutin User Lab at Cité des sciences (2004-2008) and Scientific Head of Sciences Po's Médialab with Bruno Latour (2008-2013). He specializes in socio-political stakes of digital. His last publication is Sociologie du numérique, Paris, Armand Colin, 2016.

MICHEL CORNET

Michel Cornet graduated from EDHEC and started his career at Lexmark EMEA where he worked until 2007.

He successively worked as Product Manager, Business Operation Manager and Marketing Manager in this company.

Since 2007, he is Product Manager / Buyer at Darty, where he especially monitors the product perimeter of audio, home theater and connected home. He is Head of Sound & Connected home department since 2014.

DANIEL PATAKI

Daniel Pataki chaired the National Media and Infocommunication Authority, (NMHH) in Hungary and the European Regulators Group which preceded the Body of European Regulators of Electronic Communications.

He also chaired the Radio Spectrum Policy Group (RSPG).

He was then appointed Chief Executing of the association of historic operators, ETNO. In 2015, he joined the GSM

Association as Vice President regulatory.

SEBASTIEN KAISER

Sébastien Kaiser has specialized in digital industrial transformation. He apprehends innovation as a crossroads between technology, uses and actions integrating an ecosystem.

He started his career in 1998 at TimSoft, a service provider specialized in industrial IT. He developed the business line for web/e-commerce and built relationships with the Silicon Valley. In this context, he deployed the e-commerce website of Group Arnault and the worldwide intranet of Veolia Transport.

In 2007, he joined Réseau Ferré de France (today SNCF Réseau) which supervises the railway infrastructure in France. He led the do over of the commercial information system in relation with the French Authority of Railway Affaires (ARAFER).

Sébastien joined the digital direction of SNCF when it was created in 2015. He supervises the activities related to networks and connectivity. He monitors the extension of mobile broadband to the national railway network in partnership with the 4 French telecom operators and Arcep. He is also in charge of connectivity with respect to the necessities of IoT..

LAURENCE ALLARD

Laurence Allard is lecturer at IRCAV-Université Paris III / Lille III and sociologist.

She specializes in everyday uses of digital tools and citizens of the digital world.

She is the author of "Mythologie du portable" (Le Cavalier Bleu, 2009), "Téléphone Mobile et Création" (Armand Colin, 2014) and is preparing a publication entitled "Dans quel monde voulons-nous être connectés?".

Her professional website: <http://culturesexpressives.fr/doku.php>: <http://culturesexpressives.fr/doku.php>

CHRISTIAN DAVIOT

Christian Daviot started his career in consulting at Essentiel & Network.

He worked for 2 years at the Minister of economy and finances' office as technical adviser for economic intelligence and expansion.

In 2006, he was appointed Chief executive of the charity Prometheus which was created in 2003 following the report on economical intelligence, competitiveness and social cohesion which was delivered to French PM in 2003.

Since 2009, he is advising the Chief executive of Agence nationale pour la sécurité des systèmes d'information, on strategy..

OLIVIER DESBIEY

Olivier Desbiey is Prospective Research Officer at Commission nationale de l'informatique et des libertés (CNIL) and works in the department of Technologies and Innovation.

He is a contributor to the LINC which is the Digital innovation lab at CNIL. Innovation activities are expected to nurture the prospective reflexion of CNIL, exploring emerging ideas and supporting innovation projects relative to personal data and privacy protection.

Olivier Desbiey studied economics. Before joining CNIL, he worked for the direction of innovation of an important company, especially on digital confidence.